Type of immigration medical exam (IME) for Canada Visa

There are 2 IME types which include 1. Upfront medical exam 2. Medical exam after submitting a visa application.

1. Upfront medical exam means getting an exam before you submit your visa application. you can make an appointment with IOM when you are planning to apply for a visa but have not submitted the application yet. On the exam date, IOM will provide you with the information sheet indicating the “health identifier” number that you will use for your visa application. You must attach the information sheet to your paper application. If you apply online, you must upload the information sheet before you can submit your application.
2. Medical exam after submitting a visa application. In some circumstances, you may submit your visa application before getting a medical exam. You should wait for IRCC to send you the instructions on how to get your medical exam done. IRCC will also send you the Medical Report form (IMM 1017E) that will be used to make an appointment and get the exam with IOM. To make an appointment with IOM, you should always provide us with the IME number that can be found in the Medical Report form (IMM 1017E) as following sample.

General advice regarding immigration medical examination

1. The whole process of the immigration medical examination may take around 1-2 hours.
2. Children under 16 years must be accompanied by a parent or a legal guardian with the power of attorney from a parent, who can sign and make decisions on their behalf.
3. The full physical examination requires you to undress to underwear and you will be provided a gown to wear.
4. You have the right to request a chaperone at any time during the medical exam, especially if you are to be examined by a physician of the opposite sex.
5. Do not conceal medical conditions.
6. Do not conceal pregnancy.
7. Abstain from drinking alcohol on the day before the examination.
8. Fasting is not required.
9. Drink enough water and take enough sleep.
10. Do not forget to take your regular medicine on the examination date.
11. Women are advised to avoid medical examinations during menstruation as it may affect the urine test result.
12. Postpone or re-schedule your appointment if you or your children are ill with a fever or rash.
13. If you do not speak Thai or English, please arrange for your own interpreter to assist you during the medical examination process.
